

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing apparatus for embedding an electronic watermark into an original image including a background process device and a watermark embedding device. The background process device processes the background of the original image. The watermark embedding device embeds electronic watermark information into the original image after processing by the background process device.

I:\ATTY\KLL\238193US\238193US-PA.DOC